“ Fabian and I met in pre-school at PV Elementary school in 1968 at the age of 4 years old, and from that time until we were age 21 we were as close as two friends could be. We stumbled through our awkward adolescent years together, and shared several rights of passage experiences on our journey to adulthood. I've had very few people in my life that were as close to me as Fabian was. So close that I named one of my sons after my friend. In the month preceeding his passing we were able to reconnect and take a stroll down memory lane. For 6 hours we relived a few of our shared experiences, and we never laughed so much as we laughed that day. Then a few days later he was gone, but I am so grateful and will forever cherish our last conversation together 💖 Friends until the end of Time your friend Bobby Plunkett!

“ I was one of Xaviers best friends growing up starting at 5 years old. Being a year older then Fabian he used to follow us around like our puppy. At first Xavier tried to get rid of him but at the end we just let him follow.

“ My condolences to Fabian's family and friends. I was so saddened to hear the news of his passing... Way to young...we were childhood classmates but even as adults if we saw each other we would stop and talk.....prayers for peace and comfort to surround all who loved him

I grew up Fabian from our first day of pre-school in 1968 at the age 4. We remained very close until we were young adults. We have shared memories to numerous to recount, we share the right of passage experiences by most young men together. Our friendship was so enduring that I named one of my sons after him. I have to admit that the last time we talked was just a few days before he passed away, and that conversation we had lasted for six hours because we were taking a stroll down memory lane. I have not laughed so much and so hard for such a long time in my entire life. We had the opportunity to reconnect, reunite, and relive our shared life experiences, and for that I am so Grateful. Until we meet again Fathead. Much 🧡💙
