“ My soul sister, I can't believe you are gone! At first I thought we would never share a laugh in this life again. But I realized this is not true. You see, since you moved on to your next walk, we have shared laughs. They are laughs of the past, but only we two still share them. Boisterous laughs till we cried. There will still be crying but they will be my tears alone. I will shed tears for the friend that I've lost. But I promise to still shed tears of laughter as well. I know that is how you would want it. I thank God you barged into my life, and you did barge into it. You were the friend I didn't know I needed. You never thought twice about being there for me, I just hope I was there for you as much as you needed me to be. My only regret is I didn't know you sooner. Just think of the fun we could have had, had we known each other earlier. I'm thankful for the few years we did have, you will always be in my heart. The connection or souls had was irresistible, truly a friendship that was written in the stars. I will always cherish my Julie time, and I will long for it till we meet again my friend. I will miss the way you called me different names, hollering at me.... "Connie" I told you that is my sister's name (you laughed) you called me "Donna" again my sister's name (you laughed) " Damn It Ellen!" I'll call you "Marie" you look like a Marie. Well I should it's my mother and sisters middle names. From then on James and I were known as Tony and Marie the mobsters. I love you more than you would have ever have known in this world, and could only realize in your celestial state. I love and miss you terribly my soul sister. Rest easy to we meet again. 💕💕

“ I will always remember Julie’s boisterous laughter. You could always tell when Julie was in a room or at a gathering from her contagious laughter. Julie was good friends with my Cousin Laura Pond and I can picture them together again sharing some dirty jokes and loud laughter. Julie was wise and loving and gave some great advice. Sympathetic and sweet. She will be greatly missed. Rest in Paradise Lovely Lady.
