“ I don't know what made me think of you today. I go on FB to only find out you've been gone 7 years. I still remember things like yesterday. The first time you came out of the hospital, my scrawny butt was wheeling you around all day. I kinda lost touch with you over the years bc I kept getting in trouble and left for the Army. But the only happiness I get in knowing this...is that you won't be in that stupid wheelchair anymore and you're walking around with us again my friend.
