“ I reconnected with Mike at our last class reunion 5 years ago. If not for my daughter (I pulled over to the side of the road) and called her to tell her I’m not going!! She convinced me to go and have fun! And I had to call her when I got there. First person I see is Mike. Gets up, says”hey Rob!! , how you doing?” Get a big hug and we start yapping trying to get caught up on each other’s life. Felt like I was back in high school. He then directs me to a table outside the front door. (I snuck in through the back door, wrong door and of course it slammed behind me..) 😳 which is why mike took me to go sign in and get a name tag. He really did not have to walk me all the way though!! But that’s mike. I got to play HS basket ball with this great athlete. He was chosen athlete of the year and guess who was runner up? Yup, me!! It was a running joke over the years that I should have won, but I let him have it. Lol.. he let out that infamous laugh of his which made me and others laugh. Mike I’m serious, trophy please!! Put his arm around me and let’s go get you a beer. And guess who paid? Me, he just dropped me off basically, as I turned around he was gone talking to other classmates. It was a blessing to me that I attended that reunion. We kept in touch over the years. Our last conversation was when I called him from Georgia. I forgot about the time difference. But Mike being Mike, he still took the time to talk... Gonna miss him but I will never forget him. R.I.P. my friend. 🙏❤️
