“ I was wondering why I haven't seen her at Target. This is where I meet Nicki. Such a beautiful lady. I really enjoyed listening to her stories, she would tell me about her pig. How someone dropped off the last dog she took in. She really liked her music, rock & roll it was always playing when I use to deliver her the dog food she couldn't find. I remembered this particular story she shared with me. Her younger sister wanted to see her husband & he was in the VA hospital in Fresno & her younger sister didn't want to drive.....so Nicki drove. Oh Nicki was laughing as she was telling me. I'm the oldest & I have to do the driving. Today I went home a different route & noticed that there was an estate sale. To Nicki's family I'm so glad that I had the privilege of knowing such a beautiful person. So sorry for your loss.
