“ I met PJ about 17 years ago when I began playing golf with a group he played with at the Tulare Golf course. I did enjoy playing golf with PJ and the gang but more than anything I enjoyed sitting around after each round while PJ regaled us with tales of his many life experiences and his incredible yarns of what it was like growing up in Woodville. Just as his tales were unique, PJ was unique. I don't think I have ever met anyone that could spin a tale the way PJ did. You always knew that only about half of what he was relating was based on actual events, with the other half being constructed in that creative mind as he spoke. But, it really didn't mater what was fact or what was fiction, the stories were so interesting that they kept you mesmerized, they were always interwoven with adventure and humor, and you could be sure when he finished your would be crying from laughter. Since I moved to the coast about five years ago PJ and I have continued our friendship via the Internet. Almost every week, and often many times a week , I would send PJ something I thought he may find interesting. One thing I could be sure of was that he would return a comment for each thing I sent to him. His responses were always typical PJ. He often questioned my intelligence, my understanding or the world, but he would always forgive my shortcomings noting that it wasn't my fault. He always said my many inadequacies could be directly related to the fact that I was born in Arkansas. He noted that since no one with one bit of intelligence had ever been born in Arkansas I was not responsible for my shortcomings. PJ was my friend and I will miss him very much. Every time I turn on the computer I will think of him, and although I will never be able to repair the part of my heart that died with his passing, I will also remember how lucky I was to have known PJ, how lucky I was to have had him as a part of my life for the past 17 years, how much joy be brought to my life, and what a really good friend he was. I would like to offer my condolences to Ruby and his entire family, and although I know you will grieve his loss, I hope you can also understand how lucky you were to have had this extraordinary man as a part of your lives for these many years.

“ Ruby, Kari and family,

I have so many special memories with all of you. My time spent with you has always been special to me as all of you are. The last time I saw Paul was at the Tulare Golf Course and of course he had me laughing with his very special sense of humor. He gave me a big hug then said " you know gal you are still pretty good looking for an old broad" that was classical Paul.

I have so many memories flooding through my mind of our time when we lived in Woodville and after when we all moved to other destinations. I was so blessed to be at the 25th wedding anniversary party when Paul and Kari sang "The Wonder of You " to Ruby. It is a special memory that Charles and I reflect on each time we drive through Woodville. Charles did not get to see Paul that often but reflected on what a nice, funny and down to earth person he was when he encountered him.

I just want you to know how very much I love all of you and how sad I am to know I will never encounter my friend Paul again on this earth. I am sure however that one day I will see him and laugh with him again. I know he is keeping everyone laughing in his heavenly home.

I love you and my heart goes out to you during this very difficult time.
