“ I always enjoyed seeing Bob come with two other brethren to the temple to serve in the Lord's house. We dubbed them the three Nephites because of their faithful attendance. I also enjoyed seeing his pleasant, fatherly smile as he greeted us. He was so full of wisdom and love for the Lord. We were saddened to hear of his accident and, just today, his graduation to the realm of spirits where I am certain he is anxiously engaged in the work beyond the veil. May the Lord comfort and sustain Barbara and the family through this tender period. You are in our prayers!

“Bob, to the Hayashi family, will always be "Home Teacher Bob Lewis." He was our most faithful and beloved home teacher ever. On his home teaching visits, mostly accompanied by Barbara, He would always bring the Ensign magazine because that's what home teachers do--read the First Presidency monthly message. He would say, "Well, I brought the Ensign for the message, but I'm sure you've already read it," and then he would proceed to tell one of his fabulous, awe-inspiring stories about Vietnam, or his experiences as an architect, etc. It was the best ever. We always looked forward to his visits. He would always call to set up the appointment and after I or Toni answered the phone, he would always say, "This is Home Teacher, Bob Lewis." We loved how he used that title.

Of course, we, as I'm sure as with all who encountered Bob and Barbara, became good friends and he has continued to be our "Home Teacher," even with our move a few hundred miles to the east to Arizona. He and Barbara, on a visit to their daughter here in Tucson, even made a home teaching visit to us, and yes, delivered a message.

He was a spiritual giant. His testimony was felt by all. He always stood for right and for his Commander-in-Chief, Jesus Christ. The Lord sent Bob to serve in many capacities, to many places, for many people. All were blessed by his testimony, which was quiet and firm, yet loud in action.

Above all, you could feel his love for you. He emanated love toward all. I would think that in all the decades of his life, there could be no person who would be capable of any ill feelings towards him.

Bob will be sorely missed. The Hayashis will miss his spirit, his smile, his sense of humor, and his love.

We love you, Barbara, and our hearts and prayers are with you.
